Master of Business Administration

Candiss S. Addison

Having been inspired by my director and other graduate students who took the path that I most recently took, I completed my MBA in International Business Summer 2015. This accomplishment is truly significant. It's one of the most vital investments in myself I could have ever made. The knowledge, experiences, and relationships I've acquired throughout my matriculation at Clayton State University will forever be invaluable. The self-confidence gained with completing the program is astonishing. When looking back over the 2-year span, it seemed almost impossible with the level of expectation required of graduate students and the quick pace of the program. However, with hard work, focus and close ties with those in my cohort, I was successful. The professors are absolutely wonderful and have your best interest at heart. The information shared is "real time stuff" and is applicable in business today. Cherish every moment you have while in the program. Just as quick as you start the program, it's over with a lingering feeling of sadness. This is because you will miss the people you've come to know and the relationships you've built. I have nothing but PRAISE for the program Clayton State University offers.
